Four Measures Listed To Curb Elm Disease

Increasing Toll Noted Over Widespread Area

The dread Dutch elm disease, killer of thousands of trees, is spreading rapidly over large areas.

Control measures should include: (1) Pruning and burning of all dead material from elms; (2) removing of the bark before elm wood is stored or dumped, if the wood is not destroyed;

(3) piling of stored elm wood in a dry building or cellar; (4) removing and burning promptly all elm trees killed by the disease.

There are three good clues for spotting the diseased trees, according to University of Massachusetts specialists. Evidence of woodpecker work is one. Where strips of bark have been removed from tree limbs it may indicate that woodpeckers are feeding on elm bark beetles, carriers of the Dutch elm disease.

Shepherd's crooks are another sign of the disease. These crooks are twisted twigs branching out at the end of last season's growth. Third, lack of spring buds may indicate that the trees have been attacked by the disease.

Early detection of the disease will aid control measures, foresters say.

Married Couples Want 'Prestige' But Not Children

WASHINGTON — Childless marriages are increasing because Americans are "obsessed with cleanliness" and because new babies aren't worth much in "prestige value."

Dr. Lewis I. Sharp, New York City psychiatrist, made these observations in a report to the National Conference on Family Life.

The report, prepared in collaboration with a New York colleague, S. Bernard Wortis, said there are no "physiological factors" to explain why the rate of childless marriages has doubled in the last 30 years.

"Today one out of every seven American women who marry never have children," it said.

Psychological Reasons

The report cited five "psychological" reasons:

"Cleanliness": People want to be protected from the things that are part of normal healthy childhood.

"Prestige Value": The value of the child is diminishing . . . prestige value of a new automobile is much greater than a new baby.

"Economic": The high cost of having babies is a "very important" factor.

"Milk Bottle": "This has enabled mothers to substitute movies, cocktail parties, and outside work for family life." The child reared by "absentee parents" is apt in later life to be maladjusted in marriage. Such a marriage likely will be short-lived and is unlikely to produce children.

"Weak Men": The male figure today is "weak" . . . washing dishes, doing shopping and frequently passive . . . "It is not remarkable that he has ceased to exert his prerogatives and has retired to the poker game, the club and the national conferences to commune . . ."

Recommend Subsidies

As one remedy, Sharp and Wortis recommend that the government pay parents subsidies for babies. This was proposed earlier at one of the discussion sections but voted down.

The 900 delegates representing 125 major national organizations ended their discussions after a four-day meeting. Conference officials said they were agreed "that American family life is threatened with disintegration but that something can be done about it."

Returning to their homes in 48 states and Hawaii, the delegates took with them approved recommendations.

The section meetings endorsed the "public housing program" in the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill, called for establishment of a new-type "family court" to handle divorce cases and appealed for more formal education in family living and more professional experts to help in "family counselling."

Roulette System Collapses, Collegians Quit "Forever"

LAS VEGAS, NEV.—The two college men who thought they had a sure fire system for beating the roulette wheels gave up gambling "forever."

"You can't win," they said. A $200 loss in 24 hours at roulette convinced them.

The pair, Albert Hibbs, Chillicothe, Ohio, and Roy Walford, San Diego, Calif., both 22, made their system pay $12,000 in Reno. Their first attempt at Las Vegas won $300. But they lost $800 in their last two.

Hibbs and Walford decided to get a boat for a Caribbean cruise.

Uncle Sam Says

You do not need to be a crystal ball gazer to figure out the truth of the saying that the future holds for you what you hold for the future.

If you look into your present you'll find the answer to how much security you can count upon for yourself and your family. Are you bringing home United States Savings Bonds regularly? Millions of my nieces and nephews know that these bonds are among the most essential assets to hold for their future because savings bonds are safe and profitable.

COLEMAN - JOHNSON

Palms, cybotium ferns and arrangements of white chrysanthemums, snapdragons and lillies formed a garden setting in the Baptist Church, Lynchburg, Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock for the marriage of Miss Dorothy Lee Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Johnson, of Lynchburg, to Kenneth Edgard Coleman, of Lynchburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Royal Coleman, of Appomattox. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Marshall Walker, pastor of Liberty Baptist Church, Appomattox, assisted by Dr. W. W. Shrader.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory satin, made with a fitted bodice buttoned down the back, marquisette yoke outlined with wide Chantilly lace and a full skirt forming a circular train. The finger-tip veil, edged with Chantilly lace, matching the lace on her gown, was attached to a seed pearl coronet. She carried a white prayer book topped with a white orchid and showered with satin ribbons and stephanotis. She wore a single strand of pearls, given her by the groom.

Mrs. J. Lloyd Hudson and Miss Barbara Anne Johnson, sisters of the bride, were matron and maid of honor. Their ice-blue marquisette dresses, in off-shoulder style, were made with tight bodices and hoop-skirts and they wore matching mitts, and halo headdresses. They carried bouquets of spring flowers.

Bridesmaids were: Misses Laverne Doss, Jackie Denning, Essie Sandidge, and Mrs. Martin Coleman. Their pastel colored dresses in off-shoulder style, were made with tight bodice and hoop-skirts, and they wore matching mitts and halo headdresses and carried bouquets of spring flowers.

Ralph Coleman, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were J. Lloyd Hudson, Martin Coleman, David Martin, Sam Inge and Warren Martin.

Mrs. Thomas Leachman played the traditional wedding music and John J. Wranek sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Johnson, mother of the bride, in navy blue, wearing orchids, and Mr. Johnson were hostesses at the wedding reception at their home on Court Street; and here smilax, snapdragons, roses, and other flowers followed an all-white and green note, repeated in the lighted candles. Mrs. Calvin H. Robinson, aunt of the bride, presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Coleman, mother of the groom, wore black, and red roses.

For their northern bridal trip, with Canada as their destination, the bride traveled in a toast-brown linen suit with white accessories, and at the lapel a white orchid.

They will make their home at 917 Court Street.

DRESSER - JONES

North Wilkesboro, N. C., June 17.- Miss Margaret Louise Jones, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elmer Jones, North Wilkesboro, became the bride of Frank Thomas Dresser, older son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Charles Dresser, of Appomattox, Va., at four o'clock Wednesday, June 16, in the North Wilkesboro First Methodist Church with Dr. Gilbert R. Combs, pastor of the church as the officiating minister.

Baskets of white gladioli and lillies with palms were used at the front of the church, and lighted by tapers in seven-branched candelabra.

In prelude Miss Lois Scroggs, organist, played a program of nuptial music, after which James Bray, of Mt. Airy, sank two numbers, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Robert Smith, of Mt. Airy.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and attended by her cousin, Miss de'Anne Griffin, Kings Mountain, maid of honor. Miss Virginia Fudge Dearborn,Amherst, Va., and Miss Anne Randolph Holmes, Boydton, Va., the bride's roommate at college, as bridesmaids.

Walter Charles Dresser, of Appomattox, was best man for his brother, while the ushers were Eddie Scott Cates, William Herndon, Charles T. Mosses, Jr., cousin of the groom, all of Appomattox; Bill Eliason, Middleburg, Va., Webster Babcock, Amherst, Va., and Walter Jones, Jr., Elkin, brother of the bride.

The bride wore a white satin gown designed with long sleeves ending in points over hand, and a full skirt gathered around fitted bodice extending into circular train. Her full length veil of illusion fell from a coronet of pearlized orange blossoms, and she carried a cascade of mixed white flowers.

Bridal attendants were gowned alike in turquoise organza with matching mitts. The frocks, similar in style to the bride's, were trimmed with tiny ruffles across shoulders and around hem of skirts coming up to waistline in back. They wore headdresses of sweet peas, and carried nosegays of the same flowers.

The bride's mother chose a blue sheer dress with black accessories, and the groom's mother a black sheer gown with black accessories. Both had tinted gardenia corsages.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception at the Woman's clubhouse on Trogdon Street, after which the bridal couple left for a wedding trip to Blowing Rock and other points in Western North Carolina. For travel the bride changed to a navy blue faille suit with blue and white vest, navy shoes, hat, bag, white gloves, and pinned at her shoulder a corsage of white rosebuds.

The bride, granddaughter of R. W. Kurfees, of Davle County, and the late Luzene Maxwell Kurfees, is a graduate of the North Wilkesboro High School, and this spring received her B. S. degree from the State Teachers College at Farmville, Va., where she was a member of the Cotillion Club, Kappa Delta Pi, Future Teachers of America and the Commercial Club.

The groom, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Moses, of Appomattox, graduated from the Appomattox High School and Virginia Military Institute. He is a veteran of the U. S. Navy, and plans to begin work towards his Master's degree this summer at the University of Virginia, at Charlottesville, where the couple will make their home.

Final pre-nuptial courtesy for the bridal couple was the buffet supper given Tuesday evening by the bride's parents preceding the rehearsal, honoring members of the wedding party.

Hydraulic Press Crushes Old Autos into Scrap Packages

LOS ANGELES.—What is claimed to be the world's largest hydraulic press went into operation to help relieve the shortage of scrap iron among the Pacific Coast's booming steel mills.

The machine, which looks like an elaborated guillotine, will crush an entire automobile into a solid mass of metal two feet square and four feet high.

Set up at the plant of Jerry Williams, a salvage dealer in suburban Southgate, the press was developed to help handle the unprecedented quantities of postwar scrap coming in from the Pacific and other sources.

The machine was two years in design and construction, and cost over $100,000.

While there are in operation a number of presses that will flatten an entire automobile, Williams was unable to locate one that would crush and bale simultaneously.

His specifications were a press that would take a mass of scrap sixteen and one-half feet long, six feet wide and five feet high and reduce it to bale size.

This called for a pressure of 500 tons. As finally designed, the machine itself weighs 250 tons, and has a foundation extending 30 feet into the ground. It is now demolishing a small mountain of old cars and, everything else from bedsteads to water heaters, which is one of the principal scrap sources of southern California mills.

Marine of two Flag Fame Is Reburied in His Home Town

ELIZAVILLE, KY.—Pfc. Franklin Sousley, 19, a Fleming county farm boy who helped raise the United States flag on Iwo Jima in 1945, was reburied in a simple ceremony in his home cemetery.

Sousley, one of five United States marines in the now famous flag raising picture, was killed in mopping up action on the small Pacific island a few days after the picture was made.

About 300 persons, including Gov. Earle Clements, attended the military funeral.
